

A pixelated red number 3 is centered on a white background. The number is composed of red pixels of varying intensity, creating a slightly blurred or anti-aliased effect. The entire image is framed by a thick red border, also composed of pixels, which is wider on the left and right sides than on the top and bottom. The overall style is reminiscent of low-resolution digital art or early computer graphics.

3